

Choosing to Lead Worksheet

Regardless of the type of work you do and who is (or isn't) on your team, the job of being a leader starts with you. This is why you should invest time to evaluate how well you are doing at the job of leading yourself and leading others. And, of equal importance, evaluating why you are choosing to lead in the first place.

Use this worksheet to assess and reflect on why you choose to lead.

What motivates you to chose to lead?

Is your answer to the above question solely rooted in what you want for yourself or do your desires include what you hope to help others to achieve in their work and lives?

What motivates you to chose to lead?

Is your answer to the above question solely rooted in what you want for yourself or do your desires include what you hope to help others to achieve in their work and lives?

LEDDINGGROUP
CONNECTING PURPOSE TO PERFORMANCE

Find more free leadership and team tools @ www.LeddingGroup.comTools